5. Three letters of recommendation.
6. A brief (two- to three-page) personal statement of purpose.

Thesis and Non-Thesis options and hours

There are one thesis and two non-thesis tracks. Each student must pursue one of these tracks. The thesis track requires LING 5398 and LING 5399, in addition to the requirements of nine (9) core hours and 21 elective hours. The thesis will be presented in an open defense. One non-thesis track involves an extended paper/project, which will be presented in an open defense. This track requires LING 5397, in addition to the requirements of nine (9) core hours and 24 elective hours. The second non-thesis track involves extended coursework, requiring nine (9) core hours and 27 elective hours. Under this track, there will be a final open oral and/or written examination in the candidate's chosen primary area of study. In more detail, the requirements for each degree track, including the concentration possibilities mentioned above, are as follows:
